

HOOF CARE Spray

A claw care product for cattle, pigs, goats and sheep

Natural support for the external health of joints and claws

If the health of the cow's claws and legs leaves much to be desired, this leads to economic damage for the company and causes discomfort and pain to the animals. By taking timely measures, the chance of abnormalities in the legs and joints of the cattle decreases. The condition of the claws and joints is determined by various factors, including housing, feed/ration, resistance, condition, heredity, production level, infection pressure and hygiene. Healthy legs are crucial for optimal production, feed intake and fertility. Reducing the chance of diseased claws and joints in a proper way prevents, among other things, the costs of tackling such problems.
